TikTok Counter can tell you whether you're acquiring followers quicker than any other TikTok user or if you're enjoying viral popularity. Finding your TikTok live follower count entails more than simply counting your followers. It also helps to monitor the growth of these followers on a regular basis, so you know whether your content is reaching the right people. How can I view my full TikTok follower count? Without using the TikTok counter tool, you can still see your full follower count on the TikTok app using your smartphone. However, you can only see your number of followers and those following you. Here's how you can get there in the TikTok app: Open the app on your smartphone To open your profile, tap the small human silhouette in the lower right corner of the home screen Tap the three dots in a vertical line in the upper right corner of your profile to bring new choices to your profile You should now see an option that says "Show Full Follower Count." Toggle this option on to see your full follower count How do I see live updates about my followers on TikTok? Live follower counts can be seen using a tool like TikTok Counter. When someone follows and unfollows you on TikTok, the TikTok Counter tool will show it instantly. You don't have to refresh the page to see live updates. You can also view how many new followers you've earned each day or week, as well as compare your account with other users by seeing who has more followers than you. If you want even more specific information, you can check out some of the most recent trending hashtags and see which influencers are using them in their posts. The more you focus on this data, the more accurate the stats and follower data you will be able to get from it. How to check the following count of other TikTokers? There are several ways to find out how many followers someone has. One way is to visit their profile page. Another option is to use a TikTok Counter, where you can watch their follower updates live. When you view someone's profile on the app, you'll see their follower count directly beneath their name. If you click on that number, you'll be sent to a list of who is following them. Not all TikTok followers are real! So, the best thing about using TikTok Counter to view this data is that it allows you to see how many humans and bots are following your favorite TikTokers or your account. Why do you need the TikTok Counter tool? The TikTok Counter is a fantastic way to check how popular your favorite TikTokers are with the rest of the globe, and you can watch their popularity rise in real-time. It will also notify you who is going to go live, so you don't miss out on any of the actions. As mentioned above, the tool also shows you both human and bot followers on your account. This data gives you accurate information about who's real and who's not, so that you can remove the fakes and better target your marketing efforts. The TikTok counter is useful for users who want to quickly see their number of followers, views, or likes without having to open the TikTok app. You can also get a real-time update of how many people are viewing your videos, which is quite useful. How to Increase Your TikTok Following? Make an effort to get your videos into "For You" feeds TikTok's "For You" page serves as the platform's heart. It's similar to Instagram's Explore page, except TikTok makes the "For You" page the default page that everyone sees when they open their app. Having your video appear on people's "For You" pages indicates that TikTok values the quality of your content. This helps you gain popularity and have your videos watched by a larger audience, resulting in more followers. Have a Target Market This applies to almost every social media platform, especially if you are a business using the platform to promote your product or services. Not every follower is equally beneficial to you. This holds true even after you remove bot followers when you use the TikTok Counter tool. If you are selling a product, your target audience will be apparent—the individuals who would buy your product. While Generation Z and Millennials make up the majority of TikTok users, there is a rising number of older users as well. If you feel that a sufficient number of your product's niche consumers spend time on TikTok, you might even attempt to establish a TikTok audience of Baby Boomers or Generation X. Post Videos That Appeal to Your Target Audience We already discussed having your videos appear in people's "For You" feeds. However, because "For You" feeds are highly tailored based on each viewer's demographics, hobbies, and TikTok behavior, you must target specific people with your videos. To make this work, you must first be sure that your target audience will enjoy your content. Make the kinds of videos that will appeal to them the most. Keep in mind that TikTok is all about the user experience. TikTok users do not come online to watch videos of you promoting your product. If you sell cosmetics and target teenage girls, for example, you might post videos explaining how to apply your products. This will pique their interest, making them ask how they can get the product and click that follow button. Join the trend TikTok users are fickle! They enjoy following the current trends and then tossing out whatever they believe has been popular for too long. Many TikTok users have produced their own takes on the trend, so you'll often see numerous variants of one sort of video. Remember that most TikTok viewers aren't actively looking for you or your videos. They are searching for entertaining, interesting films that follow current trends. This provides you with a good opportunity to participate, therefore increasing brand recognition if you are a business and follower count. Post high-quality videos We cannot emphasize enough how important it is to post high-quality videos on TikTok. This doesn't imply you have to hire a professional camera team to produce your TikTok video; the majority of successful TikTok videos are shot on a smartphone. However, it does mean that you plan your video, shoot in high HD (which most phones can now do), and follow basic shooting rules. Consider the lighting for your videos. If you must shoot at night, consider adding additional illumination. If you're shooting indoors, use any natural light you can get without whitening out or glaring the screen. Purchase a tripod to keep your camera stable. Small tripods appropriate for use with a smartphone are simple and inexpensive. Post Videos at Appropriate Times for Your Audience You should upload quality videos not just on a regular basis, but also when your target audience is most likely to be online. If you post videos regularly, you should be able to determine the best time to post by looking at your TikTok analytics. From your analytics, you should be able to tell what times of day people are most interested in your videos. Then, using one of the social media management apps that work with TikTok, you can schedule your future videos at the best times. Collaborate with other TikTokers TikTok users appreciate variety. Collaboration with other TikTok creators is one way to accomplish this. This means you can make videos that have twice the value - two TikTok personalities in a single video. This offers you access to the audience of your collaborator (and them to yours). Engage with Your Audience We want to emphasize the most important social media rule. You have to be social on TikTok to amass followers. If you want to grow your TikTok following, you must spend time engaging with other TikTok users. This entails watching videos that interest you from your "For You" page and following the creators you appreciate the most. Realtime TikTok Live Follower Count Watch videos, like them, share them on other social media platforms, and provide fascinating, insightful comments. Keep an eye on the comment streams for your videos and make sure you're a part of the conversation. Use trending hashtags Using trending hashtags is a good way to attract TikTok followers. This helps to improve your discoverability. People searching for popular hashtags may come across your video. If they enjoy them, they could follow you in the hopes of seeing more of the same. TikTok features a few hashtags that may help you get on people's "For You" pages, such as #fyp and #ForYou. Of course, you'll be competing with everyone else who uses these famous hashtags, so the quality of your videos is critical. Attracting More Followers with TikTok Hashtags Hashtags on TikTok function similarly to those on Instagram and Twitter. When a specific hashtag is added to a video, the content becomes discoverable when someone searches for the hashtag. This enables users to participate in trending or relevant conversations by using the appropriate hashtags. When looking for hashtags to put on your TikToks, look for ones with a lot of views. It's also a good idea to look for hot hashtags on TikTok in a related niche. When a hashtag is trending or has a large number of views, it indicates that people are interested in it. When you use the hashtag, you increase the probability that the right people will discover and engage with your content. There are numerous ways to identify and research hashtags: The TikTok Discover page displays some of the most popular hashtags currently trending. Look for listicles that gather the top TikTok hashtags in various categories. Also, you could use a hashtag tool to find the most popular hashtags relating to a specific topic. Using such a tool will also give you important statistics such as the number of posts, views, and post views. How to use hashtags on TikTok? Now that we've covered the fundamentals, let's look at some ideas for making the most of TikTok hashtags: Mix niche-specific hashtags with popular or trending hashtags While famous and trending hashtags are excellent for reaching a large number of people, they are also quite competitive. This makes it difficult to gain attention unless your account already has a significant following. Niche-specific hashtags can attract people who are interested in your offering. Furthermore, they are less competitive, making it simpler for your content to get noticed. Combine both sorts of hashtags to get the best of both worlds. The goal is to gain popularity with the niche hashtag in order to increase your visibility on the trending or popular hashtag. Always look for the most popular hashtags trending at the moment Trends on TikTok are frequently transient, which means that a hashtag that is trendy today may quickly lose its popularity the next day. So make sure you're studying hashtags that are currently popular. As previously said, you may use a hashtag tool to identify trending hashtags to use for your video.
